Creating an Extraordinary Life includes providing Extraordinary Care

Toronto, ON: Liliane de Vries has given Healthcare Organizations a new reason to hire her as a keynote speaker for their own staff.

As a passionate nurse, Liliane understands the challenges in healthcare and the pain of the healthcare professionals and their organizations. As a keynote speaker her mission is to bring life back to healthcare and its people.

She speaks and works directly with healthcare professionals to give them new perspectives on their profession and ultimately their life and how this is aligned with their purpose and passions. She knows that change can only happen if those involved want it to happen and that the key to an extraordinary life in healthcare is providing self and others with extraordinary care.

Liliane works with healthcare organizations to design one on one coaching, team coaching, workshops, keynotes, special events and or retreats in alignment with their mission and vision. Working together with Liliane not only supports the outcome and message of the organization, but helps her to communicate with their staff in a way in which most organizations do not.
